

ASPC

ASSOCIATION OF SURGEONS IN PRIMARY CARE

Annual Scientific Meeting

Bay View Suite

Bournemouth International Centre

Friday 13th May 2011

PROGRAMME

HEADING

As always, the Association wishes to expand on the success of previous meetings and foster greater involvement from the wider surgical community. To that end, this year we are delighted to additionally welcome the British Intestinal Failure Alliance (BIFA), the Association of Military Surgeons (AMS), The United Kingdom Medical Students' Association (UKMSA) and the Association of Surgeons in Primary Care (ASPC), who will be holding their Annual Scientific Meetings in conjunction with the ASGBI Congress.

The British Intestinal Failure Alliance (BIFA) will be holding their Annual Scientific Meeting on Wednesday 11th May 2011 in the Bay View Suite at the Bournemouth International Centre. BIFA is a special interest grouping within the British Association of Parenteral and Enteral Nutrition (BAPEN), and it is hoped that the BIFA scientific programme for the day will also be of interest to a wider surgical audience. Therefore, delegates attending the ASGBI Congress are most welcome to attend BIFA sessions. The Association extends a cordial welcome to Professor Jeremy Powell-Tuck (Chairman of BIFA) and his colleagues.

The British Intestinal Failure Alliance (BIFA) will be holding their Annual Scientific Meeting on Wednesday 11th May 2011 in the Bay View Suite at the Bournemouth International Centre. BIFA is a special interest grouping within the British Association of Parenteral and Enteral Nutrition (BAPEN), and it is hoped that the BIFA scientific programme for the day will also be of interest to a wider surgical audience. Therefore, delegates attending the ASGBI Congress are most welcome to attend BIFA sessions. The Association extends a cordial welcome to Professor Jeremy Powell-Tuck (Chairman of BIFA) and his colleagues.

The United Kingdom Medical Students' Association (UKMSA) is a new student-doctor collaboration, which aims to unite over 40,000 medical students across the UK and provide them with the resources they need to maximise their experience of university. ASGBI is, therefore, delighted that the UKMSA will be holding its inaugural International Medical Student Conference on Wednesday 11th May 2011 in the Purbeck Hall at the Bournemouth International Centre. Thus, as well as around 1,500 surgeons attending the ASGBI Congress, we hope to additionally welcome over 300 medical students to Bournemouth, and it is hoped that this will be one of the largest and most prestigious single-day medical student conferences in Europe.

The British Intestinal Failure Alliance (BIFA) will be holding their Annual Scientific Meeting on Wednesday 11th May 2011 in the Bay View Suite at the Bournemouth International Centre. BIFA is a special interest grouping within the British Association of Parenteral and Enteral Nutrition (BAPEN), and it is hoped that the BIFA scientific programme for the day will also be of interest to a wider surgical audience. Therefore, delegates attending the ASGBI Congress are most welcome to attend BIFA sessions. The Association extends a cordial welcome to Professor Jeremy Powell-Tuck (Chairman of BIFA) and his colleagues. The British Intestinal Failure Alliance (BIFA) will be holding their Annual Scientific Meeting on Wednesday 11th May 2011 in the Bay View Suite at the Bournemouth International Centre. BIFA is a special interest grouping within the British Association of Parenteral and Enteral Nutrition (BAPEN), and it is hoped that the BIFA scientific programme for the day will also be of interest to a wider surgical audience. Therefore, delegates attending the ASGBI Congress are most welcome to attend BIFA sessions. The Association extends a cordial welcome to Professor Jeremy Powell-Tuck (Chairman of BIFA) and his colleagues.

The United Kingdom Medical Students' Association (UKMSA) is a new student-doctor collaboration, the Purbeck Hall at the Bournemouth International Centre. Thus, as well as around 1,500 surgeons which aims to unite over 40,000 medical students across the UK and provide them with the resources they need to maximise their experience of university. ASGBI is, therefore, delighted that the UKMSA will be the Purbeck Hall at the Bournemouth International Centre. Thus, as well as around 1,500 surgeons holding its inaugural International Medical Student Conference on Wednesday 11th May 2011 in the Purbeck Hall at the Bournemouth International Centre. Thus, as well as around 1,500 surgeons attending the ASGBI Congress, we hope to additionally welcome over 300 medical students to Bournemouth, and it is hoped that this will be one of the largest and most prestigious single-day medical student conferences in Europe.

The United Kingdom Medical Students' Association (UKMSA) is a new student-doctor collaboration, which aims to unite over 40,000 medical students across the UK and provide them with the resources they need to maximise their experience of university. ASGBI is, therefore, delighted that the UKMSA will be holding its inaugural International Medical Student Conference on Wednesday 11th May 2011 in the Purbeck Hall at the Bournemouth International Centre. Thus, as well as around 1,500 surgeons attending the ASGBI Congress, we hope to additionally welcome over 300 medical students to Bournemouth, and it is hoped that this will be one of the largest and most prestigious.

HEADING

As always, the Association wishes to expand on the success of previous meetings and foster greater involvement from the wider surgical community. To that end, this year we are delighted to additionally welcome the British Intestinal Failure Alliance (BIFA), the Association of Military Surgeons (AMS), The United Kingdom Medical Students' Association (UKMSA) and the Association of Surgeons in Primary Care (ASPC), who will be holding their Annual Scientific Meetings in conjunction with the ASGBI Congress.

The British Intestinal Failure Alliance (BIFA) will be holding their Annual Scientific Meeting on Wednesday 11th May 2011 in the Bay View Suite at the Bournemouth International Centre. BIFA is a special interest grouping within the British Association of Parenteral and Enteral Nutrition (BAPEN), and it is hoped that the BIFA scientific programme for the day will also be of interest to a wider surgical audience. Therefore, delegates attending the ASGBI Congress are most welcome to attend BIFA sessions. The Association extends a cordial welcome to Professor Jeremy Powell-Tuck (Chairman of BIFA) and his colleagues.

The British Intestinal Failure Alliance (BIFA) will be holding their Annual Scientific Meeting on Wednesday 11th May 2011 in the Bay View Suite at the Bournemouth International Centre. BIFA is a special interest grouping within the British Association of Parenteral and Enteral Nutrition (BAPEN), and it is hoped that the BIFA scientific programme for the day will also be of interest to a wider surgical audience. Therefore, delegates attending the ASGBI Congress are most welcome to attend BIFA sessions. The Association extends a cordial welcome to Professor Jeremy Powell-Tuck (Chairman of BIFA) and his colleagues.

The United Kingdom Medical Students' Association (UKMSA) is a new student-doctor collaboration, which aims to unite over 40,000 medical students across the UK and provide them with the resources they need to maximise their experience of university. ASGBI is, therefore, delighted that the UKMSA will be holding its inaugural International Medical Student Conference on Wednesday 11th May 2011 in the Purbeck Hall at the Bournemouth International Centre. Thus, as well as around 1,500 surgeons attending the ASGBI Congress, we hope to additionally welcome over 300 medical students to Bournemouth, and it is hoped that this will be one of the largest and most prestigious single-day medical student conferences in Europe.

The British Intestinal Failure Alliance (BIFA) will be holding their Annual Scientific Meeting on Wednesday 11th May 2011 in the Bay View Suite at the Bournemouth International Centre. BIFA is a special interest grouping within the British Association of Parenteral and Enteral Nutrition (BAPEN), and it is hoped that the BIFA scientific programme for the day will also be of interest to a wider surgical audience. Therefore, delegates attending the ASGBI Congress are most welcome to attend BIFA sessions. The Association extends a cordial welcome to Professor Jeremy Powell-Tuck (Chairman of BIFA) and his colleagues. The British Intestinal Failure Alliance (BIFA) will be holding their Annual Scientific Meeting on Wednesday 11th May 2011 in the Bay View Suite at the Bournemouth International Centre. BIFA is a special interest grouping within the British Association of Parenteral and Enteral Nutrition (BAPEN), and it is hoped that the BIFA scientific programme for the day will also be of interest to a wider surgical audience. Therefore, delegates attending the ASGBI Congress are most welcome to attend BIFA sessions. The Association extends a cordial welcome to Professor Jeremy Powell-Tuck (Chairman of BIFA) and his colleagues.

The United Kingdom Medical Students' Association (UKMSA) is a new student-doctor collaboration, the Purbeck Hall at the Bournemouth International Centre. Thus, as well as around 1,500 surgeons which aims to unite over 40,000 medical students across the UK and provide them with the resources they need to maximise their experience of university. ASGBI is, therefore, delighted that the UKMSA will be the Purbeck Hall at the Bournemouth International Centre. Thus, as well as around 1,500 surgeons holding its inaugural International Medical Student Conference on Wednesday 11th May 2011 in the Purbeck Hall at the Bournemouth International Centre. Thus, as well as around 1,500 surgeons attending the ASGBI Congress, we hope to additionally welcome over 300 medical students to Bournemouth, and it is hoped that this will be one of the largest and most prestigious single-day medical student conferences in Europe.

The United Kingdom Medical Students' Association (UKMSA) is a new student-doctor collaboration, which aims to unite over 40,000 medical students across the UK and provide them with the resources they need to maximise their experience of university. ASGBI is, therefore, delighted that the UKMSA will be holding its inaugural International Medical Student Conference on Wednesday 11th May 2011 in the Purbeck Hall at the Bournemouth International Centre. Thus, as well as around 1,500 surgeons attending the ASGBI Congress, we hope to additionally welcome over 300 medical students to Bournemouth, and it is hoped that this will be one of the largest and most prestigious.

Friday 13th May 2011

BAY VIEW SUITE

EARLY MORNING (Bay View Suite)		LATE MORNING (Bay View Suite)
8:00	REGISTRATION, COFFEE AND INDUSTRY EXHIBITION (Windsor Hall)	12:15	CARE QUALITY COMMISSION REGISTRATION: FACING THE FACTS Gemma Rafferty (Regulatory Policy Officer, Care Quality Commission)
9:00	WELCOME AND INTRODUCTION Mr Raj Dhumale (President, ASPC)	11:40	QUESTION & ANSWER SESSION
9:10	THE ECONOMICS OF ALTERNATIVE DELIVERY SYSTEMS IN HEALTHCARE Professor Alan Maynard (University of York)	12:00	OBTAINING CARE QUALITY COMMISSION REGISTRATION Chris Gendall (Surgical Manager, Probus Health and Surgical Centre)
9:40	9:30 DISCUSSION	12:20	QUESTION & ANSWER SESSION
9:50	THE GREAT DEBATE: PUTTING THEORY INTO PRACTICE Chair: Graham Easton (GP) Panel: John Tisdale (GP, Cornwall) Shane Gordon (Commissioning Lead, NHS East of England) Mike Taylor (Orthopaedic Hand Surgeon, Broomfield Hospital) David Shewring tbc, Consultant Hand Surgeon, Cardiff and Vale NHS Trust	12:30	12:30
10:30	TEA BREAK AND INDUSTRY EXHIBITION (Windsor Hall)	12:40	12:40
11:00		14:00	LUNCH BREAK AND INDUSTRY EXHIBITION (Windsor Hall)

Friday 13th May 2011

BAY VIEW SUITE

EARLY AFTERNOON (Bay View Suite)

14:00 AN OVERVIEW OF AUDIT AND ACCREDITATION
Jonathan Botting
(RCGP Clinical Champion for Minor Surgery, Chelsea & Westminster and Queen Mary's Hospital)

Dr Matthew Wordsworth, Honorary Secretary, ASPC AND Director Independent Health Group

John Rine tbc, GP

14:45

14:45 WORKSHOPS:
ADDRESSING ALL ASPECTS OF
LEVEL 1, LEVEL 2 AND LEVEL 3
SERVICE PROVISIONS

Dr Vijay Kumar
(GP)

15:30

15:30

TEA BREAK
AND INDUSTRY EXHIBITION
(Windsor Hall)

16:00

LATE AFTERNOON (Bay View Suite)

16:00 TWO PARALLEL ONE-HOUR WORKSHOPS

1. VASECTOMY PROVIDERS WORKSHOP
Dr Laurel Spooner
(GP, Tollgate Health Centre, Colchester)

AND RUNNING PARALLEL TO THIS WORKSHOP

2. DOP's & AKT
If you don't know what this means, you had better come along!
Dr Soon Lim tbc

17:00

17:00

CLOSE OF CONFERENCE

HEADING

As always, the Association wishes to expand on the success of previous meetings and foster greater involvement from the wider surgical community. To that end, this year we are delighted to additionally welcome the British Intestinal Failure Alliance (BIFA), the Association of Military Surgeons (AMS), The United Kingdom Medical Students' Association (UKMSA) and the Association of Surgeons in Primary Care (ASPC), who will be holding their Annual Scientific Meetings in conjunction with the ASGBI Congress.

The British Intestinal Failure Alliance (BIFA) will be holding their Annual Scientific Meeting on Wednesday 11th May 2011 in the Bay View Suite at the Bournemouth International Centre. BIFA is a special interest grouping within the British Association of Parenteral and Enteral Nutrition (BAPEN), and it is hoped that the BIFA scientific programme for the day will also be of interest to a wider surgical audience. Therefore, delegates attending the ASGBI Congress are most welcome to attend BIFA sessions. The Association extends a cordial welcome to Professor Jeremy Powell-Tuck (Chairman of BIFA) and his colleagues.

The British Intestinal Failure Alliance (BIFA) will be holding their Annual Scientific Meeting on Wednesday 11th May 2011 in the Bay View Suite at the Bournemouth International Centre. BIFA is a special interest grouping within the British Association of Parenteral and Enteral Nutrition (BAPEN), and it is hoped that the BIFA scientific programme for the day will also be of interest to a wider surgical audience. Therefore, delegates attending the ASGBI Congress are most welcome to attend BIFA sessions. The Association extends a cordial welcome to Professor Jeremy Powell-Tuck (Chairman of BIFA) and his colleagues.

The United Kingdom Medical Students' Association (UKMSA) is a new student-doctor collaboration, which aims to unite over 40,000 medical students across the UK and provide them with the resources they need to maximise their experience of university. ASGBI is, therefore, delighted that the UKMSA will be holding its inaugural International Medical Student Conference on Wednesday 11th May 2011 in the Purbeck Hall at the Bournemouth International Centre. Thus, as well as around 1,500 surgeons attending the ASGBI Congress, we hope to additionally welcome over 300 medical students to Bournemouth, and it is hoped that this will be one of the largest and most prestigious single-day medical student conferences in Europe.

The British Intestinal Failure Alliance (BIFA) will be holding their Annual Scientific Meeting on Wednesday 11th May 2011 in the Bay View Suite at the Bournemouth International Centre. BIFA is a special interest grouping within the British Association of Parenteral and Enteral Nutrition (BAPEN), and it is hoped that the BIFA scientific programme for the day will also be of interest to a wider surgical audience. Therefore, delegates attending the ASGBI Congress are most welcome to attend BIFA sessions. The Association extends a cordial welcome to Professor Jeremy Powell-Tuck (Chairman of BIFA) and his colleagues. The British Intestinal Failure Alliance (BIFA) will be holding their Annual Scientific Meeting on Wednesday 11th May 2011 in the Bay View Suite at the Bournemouth International Centre. BIFA is a special interest grouping within the British Association of Parenteral and Enteral Nutrition (BAPEN), and it is hoped that the BIFA scientific programme for the day will also be of interest to a wider surgical audience. Therefore, delegates attending the ASGBI Congress are most welcome to attend BIFA sessions. The Association extends a cordial welcome to Professor Jeremy Powell-Tuck (Chairman of BIFA) and his colleagues.

The United Kingdom Medical Students' Association (UKMSA) is a new student-doctor collaboration, the Purbeck Hall at the Bournemouth International Centre. Thus, as well as around 1,500 surgeons which aims to unite over 40,000 medical students across the UK and provide them with the resources they need to maximise their experience of university. ASGBI is, therefore, delighted that the UKMSA will be the Purbeck Hall at the Bournemouth International Centre. Thus, as well as around 1,500 surgeons holding its inaugural International Medical Student Conference on Wednesday 11th May 2011 in the Purbeck Hall at the Bournemouth International Centre. Thus, as well as around 1,500 surgeons attending the ASGBI Congress, we hope to additionally welcome over 300 medical students to Bournemouth, and it is hoped that this will be one of the largest and most prestigious single-day medical student conferences in Europe.

The United Kingdom Medical Students' Association (UKMSA) is a new student-doctor collaboration, which aims to unite over 40,000 medical students across the UK and provide them with the resources they need to maximise their experience of university. ASGBI is, therefore, delighted that the UKMSA will be holding its inaugural International Medical Student Conference on Wednesday 11th May 2011 in the Purbeck Hall at the Bournemouth International Centre. Thus, as well as around 1,500 surgeons attending the ASGBI Congress, we hope to additionally welcome over 300 medical students to Bournemouth, and it is hoped that this will be one of the largest and most prestigious.

HEADING

As always, the Association wishes to expand on the success of previous meetings and foster greater involvement from the wider surgical community. To that end, this year we are delighted to additionally welcome the British Intestinal Failure Alliance (BIFA), the Association of Military Surgeons (AMS), The United Kingdom Medical Students' Association (UKMSA) and the Association of Surgeons in Primary Care (ASPC), who will be holding their Annual Scientific Meetings in conjunction with the ASGBI Congress.

The British Intestinal Failure Alliance (BIFA) will be holding their Annual Scientific Meeting on Wednesday 11th May 2011 in the Bay View Suite at the Bournemouth International Centre. BIFA is a special interest grouping within the British Association of Parenteral and Enteral Nutrition (BAPEN), and it is hoped that the BIFA scientific programme for the day will also be of interest to a wider surgical audience. Therefore, delegates attending the ASGBI Congress are most welcome to attend BIFA sessions. The Association extends a cordial welcome to Professor Jeremy Powell-Tuck (Chairman of BIFA) and his colleagues.

The British Intestinal Failure Alliance (BIFA) will be holding their Annual Scientific Meeting on Wednesday 11th May 2011 in the Bay View Suite at the Bournemouth International Centre. BIFA is a special interest grouping within the British Association of Parenteral and Enteral Nutrition (BAPEN), and it is hoped that the BIFA scientific programme for the day will also be of interest to a wider surgical audience. Therefore, delegates attending the ASGBI Congress are most welcome to attend BIFA sessions. The Association extends a cordial welcome to Professor Jeremy Powell-Tuck (Chairman of BIFA) and his colleagues.

The United Kingdom Medical Students' Association (UKMSA) is a new student-doctor collaboration, which aims to unite over 40,000 medical students across the UK and provide them with the resources they need to maximise their experience of university. ASGBI is, therefore, delighted that the UKMSA will be holding its inaugural International Medical Student Conference on Wednesday 11th May 2011 in the Purbeck Hall at the Bournemouth International Centre. Thus, as well as around 1,500 surgeons attending the ASGBI Congress, we hope to additionally welcome over 300 medical students to Bournemouth, and it is hoped that this will be one of the largest and most prestigious single-day medical student conferences in Europe.

The British Intestinal Failure Alliance (BIFA) will be holding their Annual Scientific Meeting on Wednesday 11th May 2011 in the Bay View Suite at the Bournemouth International Centre. BIFA is a special interest grouping within the British Association of Parenteral and Enteral Nutrition (BAPEN), and it is hoped that the BIFA scientific programme for the day will also be of interest to a wider surgical audience. Therefore, delegates attending the ASGBI Congress are most welcome to attend BIFA sessions. The Association extends a cordial welcome to Professor Jeremy Powell-Tuck (Chairman of BIFA) and his colleagues. The British Intestinal Failure Alliance (BIFA) will be holding their Annual Scientific Meeting on Wednesday 11th May 2011 in the Bay View Suite at the Bournemouth International Centre. BIFA is a special interest grouping within the British Association of Parenteral and Enteral Nutrition (BAPEN), and it is hoped that the BIFA scientific programme for the day will also be of interest to a wider surgical audience. Therefore, delegates attending the ASGBI Congress are most welcome to attend BIFA sessions. The Association extends a cordial welcome to Professor Jeremy Powell-Tuck (Chairman of BIFA) and his colleagues.

The United Kingdom Medical Students' Association (UKMSA) is a new student-doctor collaboration, the Purbeck Hall at the Bournemouth International Centre. Thus, as well as around 1,500 surgeons which aims to unite over 40,000 medical students across the UK and provide them with the resources they need to maximise their experience of university. ASGBI is, therefore, delighted that the UKMSA will be the Purbeck Hall at the Bournemouth International Centre. Thus, as well as around 1,500 surgeons holding its inaugural International Medical Student Conference on Wednesday 11th May 2011 in the Purbeck Hall at the Bournemouth International Centre. Thus, as well as around 1,500 surgeons attending the ASGBI Congress, we hope to additionally welcome over 300 medical students to Bournemouth, and it is hoped that this will be one of the largest and most prestigious single-day medical student conferences in Europe.

The United Kingdom Medical Students' Association (UKMSA) is a new student-doctor collaboration, which aims to unite over 40,000 medical students across the UK and provide them with the resources they need to maximise their experience of university. ASGBI is, therefore, delighted that the UKMSA will be holding its inaugural International Medical Student Conference on Wednesday 11th May 2011 in the Purbeck Hall at the Bournemouth International Centre. Thus, as well as around 1,500 surgeons attending the ASGBI Congress, we hope to additionally welcome over 300 medical students to Bournemouth, and it is hoped that this will be one of the largest and most prestigious.

ASPC
ASSOCIATION OF SURGEONS IN PRIMARY CARE

Address Details to Follow